fessional team 1938-
40.
Assistant Coach, Aggies,
1941-42.
All-conference fullback
at Kansas State 1934-
36.

Today might well be called the Golden Anniversary of the football rivalry between Colorado Aggies and Colorado University, for today's game completes a cycle of 50 years in which the two colleges have played 43 games (including today's). The first Aggie-C. U. game was played in 1893. A yearly record of the scores is given on another page of this program.

COLORADO STATE SQUAD

Will Football Be Curtailed Next Year?

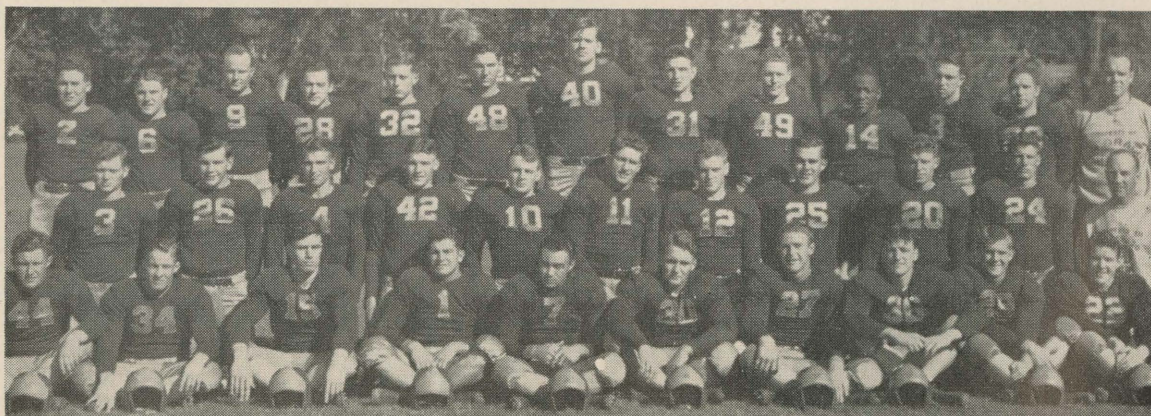

Says Athletic Director Harry Hughes: "If football is continued at all next season, it will be between nearby schools on 'home bases' with more intramurals."

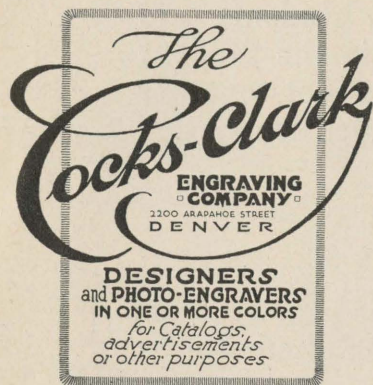

Says Coach Julius Wagner: "Lack of facilities to travel is likely to very seriously curtail football next year. If we were not able to scare up some private transportation we would have a hard time playing out our schedule this year. Next year there may not be anyone who will want to drive his car to football games even if he has a car."

Says Coach Maurice Elder: "One guess is as good as another, but if 18-year-old boys are drafted there won't be any intercollegiate football next year."

The record shows: In 1917 the Aggies played an eight-game schedule. In 1918 they played two games—against Denver University and Colorado University.

Dance Tonight

Although, because of the war, Homecoming is not being observed this year, there will be a dance for students and alumni who are here tonight at 9:00 o'clock in the Student Union ballroom. Also there will be an informal get-together immediately after the game in the Student Union lounges.

Two More Home Games

Colorado Aggies play two more games this year on their home field—Utah Aggies on November 7 and Brigham Young University on November 21.

There are 4 games remaining on the schedule:

October 31	Utah University at Salt Lake City
November 7	Utah State at Fort Collins
November 14	Greeley State at Greeley
November 21	Brigham Young University at Fort Collins

CARL STEARNS
C. U. Halfback

Colorado University

Carl Stearns, pictured in a kicking pose on this page, is a highly heralded sophomore fullback from East Denver, of whom much is expected. Tex Reilly, junior halfback is well-known to Buffalo fans. Paul Briggs, Grand Junction, sophomore tackle and Bill Myers, Fort Morgan, sophomore guard, are key men in Coach Jim Yeager's plans for the 1942 season.

Freshman footballers will be eligible this year and will probably play a very important role before the season is very old. Some of them are pictured in the player's section, but one—Walter Clay—who hails from Longmont and is nearly a star already, didn't get his picture taken in time for the program—his number is 45—watch for him.

We're taking it for granted that you've already made a point of watching veterans Tex Reilly, Glenn Hedgecock, Stan Hendrickson, Dick Woodward, Gus Shannon and the gang

So, let's have the kickoff!

ROLAND CARANCI
C. U. Tackle

Three of Jim Yeager's veterans are pictured. Stan Hendrickson, hails from Casper, Wyoming, and won all-conference honors at end of last season as a sophomore. Gus Shannon, comes from Las Animas. He was the other Buff to win all-conference honors last season, being named at guard and like Hendrickson, was a sophomore. Pictured above is Roland Caranci, senior tackle, from Boulder. Caranci is counted upon by coaches to have his best season this year.

Colorado University Briefs

The C. U. starting lineup this afternoon contains several untried gridders in key positions, and upon them rests the possible answer to the 1942 season.

Watch Messrs. Briggs, Myers, Stearns, Creese in action. Then you'll be able to judge for yourself, Colorado's future.

Also, mark down in your little black memory book the names of several freshman aspirants—Walt Clay, prize prep back of the year; Johnny Ziegler, swivel-hipped halfback; Paul Juel, 200 pound Wyoming tackle; Bob Spicer, clever Kansas back; and Rock of Gibraltar lineman, Jim Wright, who hails out of Omaha, Nebraska.

Stranger-Than-Fiction

Another truth-is-stranger-than fiction story: "Eight years ago, fresh out of Kansas State's diploma line, Jim Yeager moved over to Fort Hays, Kansas where he served as line and head coach during his four year stay there.

For three of those seasons, Jim became acquainted with a little shaver of a fellow—a brother to one of the regular line-men on the Fort Hays eleven. The little 10-year old became the team waterboy and eventually graduated to team mascot where he watched his brother make the little All-American during his senior year.

But that was eight years ago. And a coach shouldn't be expected to remember all the faces that have passed through his career—not Yeager, however.

"Say fella, haven't we met some place before?" Yeager asked one of his newly reported frosh candidates a few weeks ago.

"Sure coach, I'm your waterboy from Fort Hays. Remember?"

Yeager stopped dead in his tracks. It was his old waterboy, Dick McKee.

Incidentally, the name's one to mark down, even if Dick stands a mere 5 ft. 11 inches and adds only 160 pounds to the backfield. He's fast and shifty, can play basketball and holds several track marks.
